This book is dedicated to the realms of nature who have continued to be my teachers, friends, and partners in this work, and to my spiritual teacher, Sri Sathya Sai Baba, for helping restore my faith in humanity and the latent divinity that resides within all things.

Acknowledgements

It is said that it takes a village to raise a child. It has taken a virtual pueblo to birth this “child.” I would be negligent if I failed to give acknowledgment to the incredible midwives of this venture who helped to make this idea a reality.

First and foremost, I wish to give thanks to my Earth Mother, spiritual mentor, and partner in this work, Ann Meril, for giving “birth” to this work, and for her undying support of it and of me in countless ways, seen and unseen. Her guidance, wisdom and direction have inspired me to continually see “outside the box” of conventional reality. For this and for her uncompromising ideals of a better world, some small part of which I’ve been blessed to have inherited, I give my heartfelt thanks.

To the many Earth Angels who showed up to bring this project forth from an idea to a reality, “thank you” seems too hollow a word to you, as you deserve so very much more. One such angel is Julie De Vlieg, who had faith in this project, and who continued to support it through all its difficulties. Without your vision and inspiration, this would never have come about.

To Richard Del Maestro, and the family he never saw during the long hours he devoted to this project. Thank you for your skill, inspiration, friendship and for keeping your sense of humor even during the most impossible of tasks. Thank you for your dedication, commitment and loyalty to this project, and for helping it to come about.

To Tim Brittain, who forged through where angels feared to tread, and continued to persevere when others would have given up long ago. Your stamina, dedication and commitment to this project have been without equal.

And to the legion of angels, devas, and Masters Who were called upon daily, I give thanks. Thank you for the inspiration, for the resources, for clearing the path of resistance and obstacles, and for the fortitude to see it through to the end.

Finally, to my teacher, friend, and inspiration, Sri Sathya Sai Baba Who has been the true motivator, protector, and preserver of this work of which I have been blessed to be a part. I dedicate this work to you.
